THE BATTLE ON FRIDAY.

[We republish from our edition of yesterday the following official account of the battle on Friday:]

FIRST DISPATCH.

[OFFICIAL.]

WASHINGTON, April 1, 1865.

Maj.-Gen. Dix:

The following telegram in relation to the military operations now going on at the front was received this morning. Nothing later has reached this department.

EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, Va., March 31, 1865—9 P. M.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

At 12:30 P. M. to-day, Gen. GRANT telegraphed me as follows:

"There has been much hard fighting this morning. The enemy drove our left from near Dabney's House back well toward the Boydtown plank-road. We are now about to take the offensive at that point, and, I hope, will more than recover the lost ground."

Later he telegraphed again as follows:

"Our troops, after being driven back to the Boydtown plank-road, turned and drove the enemy in turn, and took the White Oak road, which we now have. This gives us the ground occupied by the enemy this morning. I will send you a rebel flag captured by our troops in driving the enemy back. There have been four flags captured to-day."

Judging by the two points from which Gen. GRANT telegraphs, I infer that he moved his headquarters about one mile since he sent the first of the two dispatches. A. LINCOLN.

THE BATTLE ON SATURDAY.

SECOND DISPATCH

[OFFICIAL.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, April 1, 11 o'clock P. M.

To Maj.-Gen. John A. Dix:

The following dispatch from the President, received to-night, shows that the desperate struggle between our forces and the enemy continues undecided, although the advantage appears to be on our side.

EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, April 1, 1865.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Dispatch just received showing that SHERIDAN, aided by WARREN, had, at 2 P. M., pushed the enemy back so as to retake the Five Forks and bring his own headquarters up to F. BOISSEAU'S.

The Five Forks were barricaded by the enemy, and carried by DIVEN'S division of cavalry.

This part of the enemy seem to be now trying to work along the White Oak Road, to join the main force in front of GRANT, while SHERIDAN and WARREN are pressing them as closely as possible. A. LINCOLN.

THIRD DISPATCH.

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, April 2, 1865—6 A. M.

Maj.-Gen. John A. Dix:

A dispatch just received from Gen. GRANT'S Adjutant-General, at City Point, announces the triumphant success of our arms, after three days' hard fighting, during which the forces on both sides exhibited unsurpassed valor.

EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, Va., April 2, 1865—5:30 A. M.

A dispatch from Gen. GRANT states that Gen. SHERIDAN, commanding cavalry and infantry, has carried everything before him. He captured three brigades of infantry, a wagon team and several batteries of artillery. The prisoners captured will amount to several thousand.

T. S. BOWERS.

THE BATTLE ON SUNDAY.

FOURTH DISHATCH.

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, April 3—11 A. M.

To Maj.-Gen. John A. Dix:

The following telegram from the President, dated at 8:30 this morning, gives the following intelligence from the front, where a furious battle was raging, with continued success to the Union arms. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, Va., April 2, 1865—8.30 A. M.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Last night Gen. GRANT telegraphed that Gen. SHERIDAN, with his cavalry and the Fifth Corps, had captured three brigades of infantry, a train of wagons, and several batteries, the prisoners amounting to several thousand.

This morning Gen. GRANT having ordered an attack along the whole line, telegraphs as follows:

Both WRIGHT and PARKE got through the enemy's lines. The battle now rages furiously. Gen. SHERIDAN, with his cavalry, the Fifth Corps, and MILES division of the Second Corps, which was sent to him this morning, is now sweeping down from the west.

All now looks highly favorable.

Gen. ORD is engaged, but I have not yet heard the result in his front. A. LINCOLN.

FIFTH DISPATCH.

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, April 3—12:30 P. M.

Maj.-Gen. John A. Dix:

The President, in the subjoined telegram, gives the latest news from the front:

EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, Va.—11 A. M., April 2.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Dispatches are frequently coming in. All is going on finely. Gens. PARKE, WRIGHT, and ORD'S lines are extending from the Appomatox to Hatcher's Run. They have all broken through the enemy's intrenched lines, taking some forts, guns and prisoners.

SHERIDAN, with his own cavalry, the Fifth Corps, and part of the Second, is coming in from the west, on the enemy's flank. Wright is already tearing up the Southside Railroad.

A. LINCOLN.

SIXTH DISPATCH.

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, April 2—11 P. M.

To Maj.-Gen. John A. Dix, New-York:

The following telegram from the President reports the condition of affairs at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

CITY POINT, Va., April 2—2 P. M.

To Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

At 10:45 A. M., Gen. GRANT telegraphs as follows:

Everything has been carried from the left of the Ninth Corps. The Sixth Corps alone captured more than 3,000 prisoners. The Second and Twenty-Fourth Corps, captured forts, guns and prisoners from the enemy, but I cannot tell the numbers. We are now closing around the works of the line immediately enveloping Petersburgh. All looks remarkably well. I have not yet heard from SHERIDAN. His headquarters have been moved up to Banks' House, near the Boydtown Road, about three miles southwest of Petersburgh.

A. LINCOLN.

CITY POINT, Va., April 2—8:30 P. M.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

At 4:30 P. M. to-day Gen. GRANT telegraphs as follows:

We are now up and have a continuous line of troops, and in a few hours will be entrenched from the Appomattox below Petersburgh to the river above. The whole captures since the army started out will not amount to less than twelve thousand (12,000) men, and probably fifty pieces of artillery. I do not know the number of men and guns, accurately, however. A portion of FOSTER'S division, Twenty-fourth Corps, made a most gallant charge this afternoon, and captured a very important fort from the enemy with its entire garrison.

All seems well with us, and everything is quiet just now. A. LINCOLN.

OUR SPECIAL ACCOUNTS.

DETAILS OF FRIDAY'S BATTLE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY POTOMAC, Saturday, April 1,—7 A. M. Via WASHINGTON, Sunday, April 2, 1865.

After closing my dispatch yesterday morning and indulging in a brief sleep, I was again startled by the sound of cannon, and ascertained that the postponement of operations was not effective, except in regard to certain especial movements on the left. The fighting was resumed, and was apparently very severe. I immediately hastened to the scene of conflict, which I found to be on the extreme left of our line north of the Boydtown plank-road, on the Mrs. Butler farm. This was where the fighting commenced, but it extended down the line to the Spain farm, on the Second Corps' front, and later in the day about three miles north of the plank-road.

THE FIFTH CORPS.

Early in the morning the extreme left of this corps, Gen. CRAWFORD'S division, occupying a position north of the plank-road, which it had gained on the previous day without much fighting, was attacked by a large force of rebels, comprising all of ANDERSON'S and part of PICKETT'S division, of LONGSTREET'S corps, who had been sent over from north of the James since this movement on our side commenced, and massed on the enemy's right. The skirmish line of the Third Division was not able to withstand the heavy force opposed to them, and fell back rapidly, but in tolerable order on the line of battle. The troops were at the time getting breakfast, and before they could get into line the enemy came upon them and compelled them to retire to the Boydtown road. Here they rallied and formed, and after severe fighting for four hours, drove the enemy back over the same ground, and about two miles further, being on the left of their own line, within about two miles of the Southside Railroad, and within a short distance of the enemy's main line of works south of the railroad.

In the beginning of the attack, PICKETT'S division of the enemy sent a brigade around our left flank, and into the rear of our line. Our left was held by the First Brigade of the Third Division, known as the Iron Brigade. When it was discovered that the enemy had got into the rear, the brigade faced about, and, swinging its right back to connect with the next brigade in the line, threw its left around against the enemy's right, and succeeded in driving it back from the rear, so as to enable our line to fall back in order.

In executing this manœuvre, the two opposing forces were brought into such close proximity that several hand to hand fights occurred. In one instance a rebel sergeant attempted to catch hold of one of the Sixth Wisconsin men to capture him, but the latter, stepping back, clubbed his musket and brained his foe. Capt. KEYWORTH, of the Seventh Wisconsin, was captured by the enemy and was being led away, when Sergeants ALBERT O'CONNOR and WM. JACKSON, of his company, rushed into the enemy's ranks rescued him and brought him back safely. He did not even lose his sword. Several similar instances occurred, but my time will not allow me to give them at present.

In this temporary repulse of the Fifth Corps it lost, perhaps one hundred prisoners, and suffered severely in killed and wounded. Subsequently, on entering the ground, it captured about four hundred of the enemy and two of their battle flags.

I forgot to mention that the First Division, Gen. GRIFFIN'S, moved up to support the Third when the latter fell back, and rendered very important service in checking the enemy's progress, and holding them, until the Third Division was rallied and formed anew. It then moved up in line with the First. The Second Division, Gen. AYRES, was also in the fight, and performed its portion of the day's labor with great gallantry and skill. It held its position of the line when the Third Division fell back, and, subsequently drove the enemy two miles and a half. The Third Division, however, deserves equal credit with the others, inasmuch as it was opposed to a much heavier force of the enemy, and occupied a more exposed position.

When I left the field, at about 5 o'clock, we were still driving the enemy slowly back on this portion of the front, and heavy firing, some four miles further on the left, indicated that SHERIDAN was engaged with the enemy on the line of the Southside Railroad. The firing appeared to be approaching slowly toward the position we occupied, and the general opinion was that it betokened his advance. The only report received from him was at about noon. He then sent word through that everything was progressing finely with him.

It is impossible to conjecture the loss on either side in this part of the engagement. The country fought over is very rough, being a succession of hills and deep valleys, generally thickly wooded and very difficult of access. Large details were out bringing in the wounded and dead as rapidly as possible, but in the portion of the field I passed over I saw a great number still lying where they had fallen. A large proportion of those I saw were rebels, and I was told that the enemy had carried off a great many. The loss of the Fifth Corps will probably not exceed one thousand in the aggregate.

THE SECOND CORPS.

As the Fifth Corps line advanced the battle extended along the front toward the right, and the right of the Second Corps, Gen. MILES' division, became engaged about 2 o'clock P. M. It was opposed by BUSHROD JOHNSON'S division of A. P. HILL'S corps. The fighting was very severe on this front and we sustained a heavy loss, but succeeded in advancing about one and a half miles and capturing three hundred prisoners. Among the killed in this fight was Maj MILLS, of Gen. HUMPHREY'S Staff. The Third Division of this corps, Gen. MOTT'S, also became engaged as the line continued to advance or swing around, but it was not until about 4 o'clock, and particulars could not be obtained when I left its front at 6 P. M.

The Second Division, Gen. HAYES, skirmished with the enemy all day and captured about twenty prisoners, but they did not become engaged until after 5 o'clock.

On the Second Corps front the enemy used more artillery than on that of the Fifth, and had more substantial works. The Twenty-fourth Corps were engaged at 9 A. M. in skirmishing. It charged the enemy's skirmishers, drove them into their works and captured over two hundred prisoners, but was not engaged in a regular battle. One division of the Twenty-fifth Corps was engaged in the skirmish line and drove in the enemy's pickets.

The fighting did not extend further to the right than the portion of the line occupied by this corps at Hatcher's Run, and the Sixth and Ninth Corps' fronts were quiet all day and last night.

The results, which I must sum up in a very few words as the mail is about to leave, are that we swung the left ground three miles north of the Boydtown plank-road, and there is now between it and the Southside Railroad but a single line of breastworks, thrown up since Wednesday night. We have captured about a thousand prisoners, and our own loss is not over two thousand in the aggregate. The enemy have suffered much more heavily, and their forces were becoming demoralized very rapidly. Last evening they could not be induced to make another charge on the Fifth Corps' front, although they had fought desperately early in the day.

Our loss in officers is very severe, but there are no general officers killed, and the only one I hear of being wounded is Gen. A. W. DENNISON, of the Maryland Brigade. He was shot in the leg. He lost an arm in the Wilderness fight. Lieut.-Col. DENNIS B. DAILY, of the One Hundred and Forty-seventh New-York, and in command of the regiment, was wounded in the hand in the morning, but remained on the field all day.

I have many interesting incidents to relate, but am unable to give them now, for want of time.

Gens. GRANT and MEADE were both on the ground all day, and frequently under fire. They are very sanguine of success.

We shall probably have a severe battle to-day, if LEE does not retire, and attempt to get away, which is hardly likely, under existing circumstances. He has collected on our front all the troops he possibly can, and a large portion of the works are filled with citizens of Petersburgh and Richmond. These are, however, well drilled and organized, and will probably fight as well as many of the soldiers.

HENRY H. YOUNG.

THE CAVALRY OPERATIONS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

UNDER A TREE, TWO MILES SOUTHWEST OF GRAVELLY RUN, Dinwiddie Co., Va., Saturday, April 1—1 o'clock A. M., Via WASHINGTON, Sunday, April 2.

A portion of Gen. SHERIDAN'S cavalry had a right smart engagement yesterday afternoon with PICKETT'S division of infantry and two divisions of cavalry, respectively commanded by W. H. F. LEE and FITZHUGH LEE, resulting in forcing our line back some four miles, when the enemy was checked by a portion of CUSTER'S division. Our loss in killed and wounded is estimated at about two hundred and fifty. That of the enemy was necessarily much larger, because of the reckless manner in which they exposed themselves.

I have got to the point indicated at the beginning of this letter, on my way to reach some line of communication with the civilized world, and just here, unfortunately, I am stuck fast in the mud, and at this unseasonable hour making an effort to give the readers of the TIMES some account of the fight, while sitting on the ground by the roadside, by the light of a camp-fire and a very hard pencil. But to proceed in order.

Yesterday morning everything along our lines was quiet, and, so far as I know, might have remained so during the remainder of the day, but for the confounded reb. For the supply and ammunition train, guarded by the third, CUSTER'S division, was stuck fast in the mud, equidistant between Dinwiddie Court-House and Rowanty River, and, moreover, the rain of the night before, together with what had previously fallen, rendered the roads and fields impassable for cavalry. It should be stated, in this connection, that this country is one vast quicksand, and no sooner does water soften the upper stratum of soil than a bottomless abyss is opened, when penetrated by a horses foot. It should also be stated that seven acres out of every ten are covered by a small young growth of almost impenetrable pines, so commonly seen in this section of the country on worn out lands. Now let the reader take Lloyd's map, or a better one if possible, and it will indicate as near as may be the position of our troops.

At 1 o'clock P. M., when the enemy disturbed their quiet, SMITH'S brigade, of CROOK'S Second (late KAUTZ'S) Division, rested on Stony Creek, southwest of Dinwiddie Court-house, supported by GREGG'S brigade, of the same division. DAVIES' brigade, of the same division, held a position on the same creek, northwesterly of SMITH'S. FITZHUGH'S brigade, of DAVIN'S First Division, continued the line still further northwesterly, facing to the southwest and covering a place there near Stony Creek, where five roads come together, known as "Five Forks," held by the enemy—a place we tried to take the day before, but did not for obvious reasons. STAGG'S Michigan brigade, of the same division, was in position on Gravelly Branch, in a northeasterly direction from FITZHUGH'S command, fronting southwesterly and about six miles by the direct road northerly from Dinwiddie Court-house. A portion of GIBBS' Third Brigade, of the same division, was in reserve between STAGG'S position and the Court-house, two miles from the latter point.

If I have made myself understood, it will be seen that the points held by DAVIES', FITZHUGH'S, and STAGG'S brigades formed the angles of a triangle, the apex being FITZHUGH'S brigade. It is desirable that the reader should carefully fix their positions in his mind, in order that he may understand what follows—one of the most interesting and instructive series of movements ever made by a cavalry force.

THE ATTACK ON SMITH'S BRIGADE.

At about six o'clock, P. M., the enemy attacked SMITH'S brigade in considerable force, but unsuccessfully. An hour later, Maj. ROBBINS, of DAVIES' brigade, who held a bridge across Stony Creek, with a battalion of the First New-Jersey, was attacked by a large force of infantry and cavalry, and after a stubborn resistance, when to have remained longer in the place would have been certain destruction, the Major reluctantly ordered his men to fall back, which they did slowly towards their brigade. At this juncture the enemy moved three columns across the creek at many different points, and at once, by superior numbers, was enabled to flank DAVIES' brigade. After a stubborn fight with the column advancing directly in front, Maj. HAMM, of the First New-Jersey, was among those who fell mortally wounded at this time, and he was left in the hands of the enemy. When last seen he was waving one hand, but whether to indicate that he was still alive or to cheer his men on to greater efforts is not known.

DEVIN, finding that DAVIES was falling back, sent a staff officer to direct FITZHUGH to change his front to meet the somewhat unexpected change of affairs. When the staff officer reached the Colonel he was already quietly preparing for the onset as desired, by the facing his command in a southeasterly direction. STAGG, to resist the coming storm, faced in the same general direction, and GIBBS' Brigade the same.

DAVIES retreated in echelon, but not in quite so good order as is sometimes seen on a review, for the enemy's infantry and cavalry pressed closely, and their superior numbers enabled them to outflank every position taken. The change of position put FITZHUGH on the extreme right instead of left, as at first, of DEVIN'S command, and STAGG, DAVIES and GIBBS in the order as named, from left to right.

The fight continued until about 5 o'clock P. M., at which time the enemy had cut off DEVIN, with FITZHUGH'S and STAGG'S Brigades, and forced them back in a northeasterly direction to the Boydtown Plank-road, a little east of north from Dinwiddie Court-house, and on which this portion of the command during the evening moved to that place. GIBBS' Brigade for a long time held its position, and made two successful charges, in one of which the First United States, Capt. LORD, and the Sixth Pennsylvania, drove the enemy's strong line of infantry, and captured about one hundred men.

A little event occurred in this charge which shows how little heart the rank and file of the enemy have in their present work. When this charge was made several hundred men threw down their arms and attempted to rush into our lines. Unfortunately the movement was not generally observed in season to prevent a volley being opened into them. This caused a hesitation long enough for the officers to cover them with a fire from the rear.

At the hour named (five o'clock) GIBBS had fallen back to within one mile of Dinwiddie Court-house, and was here relieved by CAPEHART'S brigade of CUSTER'S division, which was soon strengthened by the arrival of Col. PENNINGTON, with a part of his brigade from the same division. From this time until after dark, CUSTER had the fight, and the enemy did not advance to hold the ground a single rod after striking his line.

When Gen. CUSTER came to the front a scene of the wildest excitement prevailed. CAPEHART had his brigade on the left, and PENNINGTON on the right, and before anything to fight behind could be put up, the enemy came swarming out of the woods in front, as if confident of demolishing everything before them. CUSTER and his men were received with cheers. He instantly set CAPEHART'S band to playing "Hail Columbia," and other patriotic pieces. This revived the spirits of all present, and the music brought forth cheers from thousands of wearied men. As the enemy opened upon the line, Gens. SHERIDAN and CUSTER, with their staff officers, rode along the line with their respective colors displayed. This demonstration was greeted with cheers along the whole line, and by the time this was over, a heavy fire had been opened with artillery, accompanied by LORD'S and WOODRUFF'S guns.

The enemy charged several times and were repulsed with great slaughter. CAPEHART saw one of his regiments, the First Virginia, running off. Not having given the order, he followed on and found Gen. MERRITT, Col. FORSYTH, of Gen. SHERIDAN'S Staff, and several other staff officers at the head of the regiment. The enemy fell back hastily before these troops and did not make another attempt to force our line.

In this charge Gen. CUSTER'S orderly, BURT HOUGH, fell mortally wounded within the enemy's line. He had on his person the General's maps and other important papers. However, the extent of HOUGH'S wound was not known and timely aid might save a valuable life. Accordingly, Lieut. LAMPHEIER, of the First Connecticut Cavalry, and Lieut. HINMAN, of PENNINGTON'S Staff, volunteered to go for the wounded man. Accompanied by a brother, they dragged out the body of HOUGH after nightfall from between the enemy's camp.

This charge about ended the fighting. After a few volleys night set in, and the troops sat down to watch and wait for the morrow. During the after part of the day, when DAVIES had been pressed back, GREGG'S brigade pressed up on the right flank of the enemy and contributed something toward making him cautious as to advancing after nightfall.

PARTIAL LIST OF KILLED AND WOUNDED.

Annexed is a list of killed and wounded so far as can be obtained at this time of writing:

Lieut. Joraleman, Third New-Jersey Cavalry, wounded.

Capt. Newton, Third New-Jersey Cavalry, wounded.

Capt. Thompson, Gen. Custer's Staff, nip.

Burt Hough, Gen. Gibbs' Orderly, mortally.

—— Mullinger, Second Ohio, Capt Lawler's Orderly, wounded.

Mr. Wilson, correspondent New-York Herald, severely in left arm.

Corporal Alex. Regan, Fifth Michigan, killed.

Sergt. Wilson T. Mathews, 5th Mich.—wounded.

Capt. Heslop Smith, staff—wounded.

Maj. Chadbourne, 1st Maine, commanding 2d New-York Rifles—wounded in shoulder.

Four officers of the 4th Pennsylvania were wounded.

Capt. Paling, of Fitzhugh's Staff—flesh wound, leg.

Lieut. Chamberlain, Provost-Marshal, Fitzhugh's Staff.

Lieut. McGee, 6th Penn. Cavalry—killed. This officer had just been promoted from Sergt.-Major.

Lieut.-Col. Morrow, 5th Pennsylvania—severely.

Colonel and Major of 24th New-York Cavalry.

Maj. Hart, 1st New-Jersey—killed.

The above embraces all the casualties that could be obtained at the hour I left the front.

The troops throughout the day fought splendidly, otherwise they would have been annihilated. As it was, the enemy's partial success was owing mainly to the fact that the men got out of ammunition, and could not be supplied owing to the fact before stated. FITZHUGH'S and STAGG'S men marched, fought and manœuvered through wood, swamp and fields, on foot, for six miles. The other brigades marched and fought about four miles each, when, considering the soft condition of the ground, as may well be supposed, the march alone was labor enough.

In evidence of the handsome manner in which the troops were handled, the fact is stated that so far as is known the enemy did not capture a single horse. Gens. CROOK and MERRITT were active and where most needed. Gen. SHERIDAN, of course, was in the saddle, and though the field of operations extended over a vast extent of ground, he seemed to be almost everywhere at one and the same time.

Our comparatively small loss is attributed to the fact that the enemy were immeasurably excited and fatigued, and in their haste fired too high. I saw volleys fired at COPELAND'S and PENNINGTON'S brigades of such extent as to make a perfect sheet of lead. It seemed as if no man within the range could escape, and the eyes of lookers on were turned to the line as each succeeding volley was fired, expecting to see the ground covered with killed and wounded. Fortunately, most of the volleys were aimed too high.

The wounded have all been sent to City Point, or will be as soon as brought in. Quite a number of wounded men were within the enemy's line. Last night, at 10 o'clock, as I left the extreme front, CUSTER'S advance was within a few rods of the enemy's lines. Digging was, of course, the order of the night. E. A. PAUL.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT OF FRIDAY'S BATTLE.

The Operations of the Fifth Corps—Severe Fighting near Gravelly Run—Our Troops at First Driven Back, but the Lost Ground Subsequently More than Recovered.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, April 2.

A letter from the Army of the Potomac, dated Friday evening, says there has been severe fighting on some parts of the line from morning till night, the result of which has been the extension of our lines still further westward, although at a considerable loss in killed and wounded.

The Second Division of the Fifth Corps, supported by the Third, was thrown out toward the White Oak road, east of the Boydton plank road, and ordered to reach and take position there. After crossing a small branch of Gravelly Run, and while about forming in line, our troops were fired upon by a heavy force of the enemy, who were lying concealed in the woods, and also by the rebel artillery posted in favorable positions. Our men stood their ground for a while, but the enemy appearing to be moving to the left as if to turn their flank, the line was forced back to their first position where they were rallied and soon checked the enemy's advance.

About the same time another attack was made on our right flank of the Fifth Corps, but Gen. MILES' division of the Second Corps being posted here made a brilliant charge, and doubled up the enemy, driving them back a long distance, leaving hundreds of their dead and wounded on the field. This was a very handsome affair, and the division received the highest praise for the manner in which it was done. The loss on our side was about 400, as nearly as can be ascertained, mostly in the First Division.

The Fifth Corps about noon again took the advance, and drove the enemy back about a mile and a half, and long before dark had reached the White Oak Road, for which they had started in the morning, and established their line across the same, driving the rebels into their strong works at Hatcher's Run. Their loss in the day's work will not be far from 1,200.

Among the casualties reported are Maj. MILES, A. A. G. on Gen. HUMPHREYS' staff, killed by a shell; Col. SERGEANT, Two Hundred and Tenth Pennsylvania, severely wounded, and Gen. DENNISON, commanding a brigade in the Second Division, Fifth Corps, slightly wounded.

An attack was also made in front of the Sixth Corps, but it was not successful.

After the rebels were driven back in front of the Fifth Corps, an attack was made with both infantry and cavalry on SHERIDAN'S force, about three miles from the Southside road, near Sutherland Station, driving them back toward Dinwiddie, but subsequently they gained much more than they lost.

The roads are in a terrible condition, it being almost impossible to move the trains over them. The heavy rains have swollen the streams, and the engineers are busy day and night laying bridges and corduroys.

The loss of the enemy is not known, but judging from the number of dead lying in the woods and ravines where the fighting occurred, it must have been at least as heavy as our own. We took about one hundred and fifty prisoners during the day.

NORTH CAROLINA.

Rapid Advance of Gen. Stoneman's Army—Capture of Boone, North Carolina and Defeat of a Rebel Force—Important Results Expected Soon.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF EAST TENNESSEE, Boone, N. C., Monday, March 27, Via KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Saturday, April 1.

The advance of Gen. STONEMAN'S force, commanded by Maj. KEOGH, A. D. C., entered and captured the town of Boone, N. C., at 12 o'clock to-day. The rebel force was routed with a loss of ten men killed and sixty-five wounded and prisoners. Maj. BARNES' battalion of the Twelfth Kentucky Cavalry lost a few men wounded.

Gen. STONEMAN'S command is now well into North Carolina, and will be heard of soon in the heart of rebeldom.

REBEL REPORTS.

From the Richmond Whig, March 31.

The Lynchburgh Virginian of the 29th says: "The enemy—we suppose STONEMAN'S cavalry—have flanked Bristol, leaving it to the left, and are passing by way of Taylorsville in the direction of Glade Spring.

Taylorsville is in Johnson County, Tenn., in the extreme northeastern corner of the State. Of course this movement will compel the evacuation of Bristol."

Affairs in Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Thursday, March 30, Via CAIRO, April 1.

Petitions are being signed by many persons here praying that the President declare Tennessee no longer an insurrectionary State, and that the Secretary of the Treasury will remit the present tax on goods from the Northern States.

The Memphis and Charleston Railroad is running to Collierville, and soon will be extended further. The telegraph is working to Lafayette.

As another evidence of Gen. WASHBURNE'S desire to restore civil law, he has ordered the United States police to confine their attention entirely to military offenders.

Cotton is very dull at 25c. There are heavy losses here from the decline in cotton.

FELONIOUS ASSAULT.—DENNIS CLIFFORD was arrested on Saturday night for striking WM. THOMPSON over the head with an iron wrench, and it is feared, fractured his skull. Both reside at the corner of Bond and Butler streets, and got into a quarrel about some domestic arrangements.

LAW REPORTS.

The April Term of the Law Courts.

To-day, being the first Monday of the month, the law courts will commence the term. The calendar in all of them is unusually large, and several cases of public importance stand foremost on the list. They will doubtless be tried during the present month. In the Supreme Court, there will be three parts, namely: Part 1st will be held as an Oyer and Terminer by Justice INGRAHAM. Three or four capital cases are to be tried during the term, nearly all of which are for murder in the first degree. Part 2 of the Circuit is to be held by Judge Clerke, and part 3, (at No. 73 Duane-street,) by Judge Peckham, of Albany. The celebrated Merchant Will case, involving a large amount of money, stands near the head of the calendar. Judge Barnard will sit at the chambers of this court during the month of April.

In the Superior Court, trial term, Judge Barbour will hold part 1, and Judge Garvin part 2. The general term will be held by Judges Moncrief, Monell and McCunn. The Strong divorce suit, and a celebrated cotton case, in which the sum of $300,000 is involved, are expected to be brought on the trial terms of this court during the month. Judge Robertson will hold the trial term of the Common Pleas in part 1, Judge Daly in part 2, and Judge Brady will sit at special term and chambers.

The Fire Department.

A considerable number of officers and members of the Volunteer Fire Companies met Saturday evening at Firemen's Hall, in Mercer-street, between Prince and Houston, under an informal call. Chief Engineer DECKER took the chair, and Mr. CONNELLY, of No. 38 Hose, was appointed Secretary. Mr. DECKER stated to the meeting that he had caused a communication to be sent to the Common Council and Board of Aldermen, (printed, with the substance of the replies, in Saturday's TIMES,) requesting them to take such action as they should think fit respecting the paid Fire Department Law, and communicate the same to the Volunteer Department through him; but that owing to an adjournment of the Council, only the response from the Aldermen had reached him.

The Secretary began to read the letter from Messrs. Jeremiah, Ryers and Gedney, the special committee of the Board of Aldermen to whom the subject was referred, when he was interrupted by an inquiry respecting the nature of the call issued for this meeting. A debate now arose upon the circumstances of the call, and after a brief discussion, in view of the obviously insufficient fullness of the notice, a motion was made and carried, that the meeting adjourn to next Tuesday, at 8 P. M., at the same place. In declaring the meeting adjourned, Chief DECKER took occasion to express his earnest desire and hope that the department would do justice to themselves and to their good repute with our citizens, and observe caution in all their doings.

There were no signs visible of any feeling among those present at this meeting other than a purpose to abide quietly by the action of the constituted authorities.

The statement which appeared in Saturday's TIMES in relation to Engine Company No. 5, and Hose Company No. 55, appears to have been incorrect, though made upon authority which justified it. We have received notes from members of both companies denying the report that they had refused to render any assistance in case of fire.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The grand movement of the Army of the Potomac, introduced as it is with gratifying tidings of success, naturally absorbs public attention to the exclusion of all other topics The presence of Mr. LINCOLN with the army; his brief and modest telegrams; the knowledge that GRANT himself is at the front, supervising in person; that glorious PHIL. SHERIDAN leads our splendid cavalry; that THOMAS is already threatening Lynchburgh from the West; while SHERMAN, with an army flushed with six months of unvarying success, lies within striking distance in GRANT'S rear, ready, if need be, to launch upon the enemy a power utterly irresistible; that the James River is clogged with our monitors and gunboats; that Mobile, if not already under fire, will soon be subjected to an ordeal that promises an early victory—all these great facts necessarily fix the eyes of our whole country—we may say of the world—upon the surring events of the hour. That the visit of the President to GRANT'S headquarters, and the grand council of Generals held last week should be translated into action so soon, shows that there is a determination to make at least an effort to end the long protracted struggle, and by a blow so decisive that all hope of further organized resistance on the part of the leaders of the rebellion must be abandoned. Gen. GRANT'S movements were begun by SHERIDAN, who, on Tuesday last, began to push his cavalry along the rear of our lines toward and beyond Ream's Station. The enemy quickly detected this movement, and their papers at once grew uneasy as they sounded the alarm. On Wednesday morning the Second and Fifth Corps moved from their works to follow and support SHERIDAN. There followed a rain-storm, as usual when the Potomac army moves, whereby movements on the next day (Thursday) were materially retarded. To return to Wednesday: Our infantry met very little opposition, receiving only here and there a sprinkle of musketry, until the First Division of the Fifth Corps had got to the junction of the Boydtown with the Quaker road, where they had a fight, which lasted about an hour and a half, and our loss was some three hundred and thirty, of which number about forty were killed and the rest wounded. The rebel loss was about two hundred and fifty in killed and wounded, and one hundred prisoners. The enemy was finally driven from his works, and retired to another line beyond the Boydtown road, and our troops of the First Division followed up and took a position with the left, about two miles north of the road. The entire losses of the First Division for the day were a little over 450. After the fight here alluded to, the Second and Fifth Corps formed a junction and advanced slowly, driving back the rebel skirmishers, until darkness compelled a suspension of operations. This was all the important fighting during Wednesday. The enemy, however, enlivened the night by a furious cannonade along the lines in front of our Ninth Corps, evidently in the hope of finding a weak spot; but they were disappointed. On Thursday the rain began very early, about midnight, and lasted until 4 P. M., rendering the roads impassable for artillery, and necessarily suspending active operations. A lively fire of artillery was kept up by the enemy and picket firing was rapid and continuous, but no serious damage was done. On Friday morning the enemy became fully awake to the danger threatening him; LEE himself, so prisoners say, was at the front and speedily began the day's work by a desperate rush upon our left, which he forced back upon their previous position on the Boydtown Road. Here our men rallied and in turn drove the enemy with considerable loss, over all the distance he had gained, taking possession of the White Oak road. At the same time the enemy made an attack upon the right flank of the Fifth Corps, but by a sudden and brilliant charge our men drove them a long distance, and strewed the ground with their dead and wounded. The result of the day's work was the capture of four battle-flags, about 1,000 prisoners, and a considerable advancement of our lines. It is thought that the enemy lost about 1,200 men during the day. Very soon after the attack on the Fifth Corps, the rebels attacked SHERIDAN, at a point about three miles from the Southside Railroad, with infantry and cavalry, and, as usual, gained a slight advantage for the moment; but all was quickly recovered, and something gained besides. Operations on both sides were heavy and difficult, on account of the muddy state of the roads. On Saturday the struggle became more general, and a furious fight raged apparently nearly all day. The net result was highly favorable to the Union arms. The position called the Five Forks was recaptured, and SHERIDAN on our left, carried everything before him, capturing a large number of prisoners and several batteries of artillery. But all this heavy and successful fighting was only the prelude to the grand effort of yesterday, when Gen. GRANT ordered an attack along the whole line. At 8 o'clock the rebel lines had been broken and the battle was raging with desperate energy; SHERIDAN was sweeping down from the West; ORD was engaged and all appeared favorable. At 11 P. M. the President telegraphed: "All is going on finely. Gens PARKE, WRIGHT and ORD'S lines are extending from the Appomattox to Hatcher's Run. They have all broken through the enemy's entrenched lines, taking some forts, guns and prisoners. SHERIDAN, with his own cavalry, the Fifth Corps, and part of the Second, is coming in from the west, on the enemy's flank, Wright is already tearing up the Southside Railroad." A few hours afterward we received another bulletin from GRANT, dated 10:45 A. M. Everything had been swept from the left of the Ninth Corps. The Sixth Corps had taken 3000 prisoners. The Second and Twenty-fourth had captured guns, forts and prisoners. The army was closing around the works enveloping Petersburg. All looked well; SHERIDAN not heard from. Six hours later GRANT telegraphed that his men were all up in unbroken line, and in a few hours he entrenched from the Appomatox below Petersburg to the river above. Our entire captures were at least 12,000 men and 50 guns The dispatch closes thus; "All seems well with us and everything is quiet just now."

Advices from the vicinity of Mobile are up to the 23d ult. The Sixteenth Corps, accompanied by Gen. CANBY and staff, was at Danby's Mills, on Fish River, on the east side of Mobile Bay, twenty-five miles by water from Fort Gaines, and twenty-six miles by land from Mobile. The Thirteenth Corps was expected to join the Sixteenth during the evening of the 23d. One brigade of it had arrived. The Thirteenth Corps moved by land from Navy Cove, at the lower end of the bay, a distance of forty miles, and in all this march not more than fifty rebel soldiers were encountered. No opposition worthy of the name was made to the advance of either corps, and no rebel works were encountered. The roads were found to be in a bad condition, and had to be corduroyed. Heavy firing in the direction of Mobile had been heard during the 22d, supposed to proceed from an engagement between the monitors and two of the rebel shore batteries. The New-Orleans Times of the 25th says: "A refugee reports fifteen thousand rebel troops in and about Mobile, the whole force under the command of Gen. MAURY, and that they intend to fight when an attack is made; that there are active preparations going on in anticipation of an immediate assault. The people of Mobile are of the opinion that the city will be surrendered before a great destruction of property takes place. They are fully aware of the large force near and of their intentions, and will try to get out of the difficulty with as small a loss as possible to themselves."

STONEMAN'S cavalry, which is the advance of THOMAS' army, operating in East Tennessee, and immediately threatening Western Virginia, has suddenly turned back, after almost reaching Bristol, and wheeled into North Carolina, capturing Boone, the principal town of Watauga County, on the 27th. This place is something over a hundred miles nearly southwest of Danville, and it is possible that by this time that important point, the terminus of the Richmond and Danville Railroad, is in possession of our troops. So far as known, there is no considerable rebel force in North Carolina, anywhere west of Raleigh, while the western part of the State is no doubt strongly in favor of the right side. Should THOMAS throw his force across the mountains, his march either toward GRANT or SHERMAN would seem to be equally easy.

A correspondent, writing on the 29th from the lines below Petersburgh, gives the following picture of the Lieutenant-General: "At noon Gen. GRANT arrived, with his staff. It was the first time he had been personally with the army since Oct. 27, and his presence boded important events at hand. He came with all the little baggage which suffices him in the field. The nation will be pleased to know that GRANT is looking extremely well, and takes to the field again as naturally as he did last Spring. He has apparently grown no older during the two years he has had such weighty responsibilities upon him. His manner is the same—retiring, taciturn; his face no different."

A letter from Goldsboro says that JOE JOHNSTON'S losses in the battles of the 19th and 20th, near Bentonsville, will undoubtedly reach an aggregate of five thousand. The Fifteenth and Twentieth Corps buried of rebel dead, and collected wounded, a total reaching two thousand five hundred. The small squads of prisoners taken by the Seventeenth and Fourteenth Corps, when put together, foot up a total of thirteen hundred.

Rebel papers give us a little news of our grand raiding force in Northern Mississippi and Alabama. On the 27th a column, said to be 2,500 strong, was operating on the railroad near Montgomery, and apprehension was felt that they would attack that city. It appears, however, that they kept destroying trains as they went.

GENERAL NEWS.

Subscriptions to the 7-30 National Currency Loan continue on a comparatively liberal scale. During the week just closed they averaged $2,400,000 a day. The daily average number through the week—one of unusual depression in business circles—of orders for the smaller denominations of the notes ($50s and $100s) was 1,665. The number of such orders, direct from even the humblest of the loyal people, received by the General Subscription Agent in Philadelphia, during the month of February, was 52,033, or a daily average of 1,858, and during the month of March, just closed, 65,970, or a daily average of 2,128. These orders very distinctly demonstrate the generous and abiding confidence of the loyal masses in the stability and solvency of our government.

The Toronto Leader of Saturday says that a warrant is to be issued in St Catharines, charging the St. Albans raiders with a breach of the Neutrality Act, when they will be brought to St. Catharines. This charge will be then dropped, and the prisoners will be brought before the Toronto Judges on a demand for extradition, with the expectation that they will reverse the decision lately given by Judge SMITH, of Montreal. A dispatch from Montreal says that the money voted by Parliament has been paid to the St. Albans banks.

Advices from Idaho report that popular meetings have been held, approving Gov. LYON'S course in removing, as per act of the Territorial Legislature, the capital from Lewiston to Boise City. Efforts are being made to establish overland communication between California and Idaho. Such a route would greatly decrease the distance. Gen. WRIGHT has promised military protection by the 1st of May, when stages and wagons can make the trip.

The Democratic Press of San Francisco, which claims to have special and exclusive sources of information, says that Ex-Senator GWIN has gone to France, but will very soon return with a force of French troops under Marshal BAZAINE, and take possession of Sonora. The Press does not credit the report of GWIN'S elevation to the ducal station, nor that MAXIMILIAN has ceded any portion of the Mexican Territory to the French Emperor. The whole affair seems to be muddled and inconsequential.

Maj. FRANK POPE, Assistant Engineer of the Bulkley Overland Telegraph to Russia, leaves this port to-day for Sitka, Russian America, where he will join Col. BULKLEY. The last members of the party from this side of the Rocky Mountains have left for the scene of operations, and the preliminary practical steps for the establishment of an overland telegraph, which shall connect this country with Europe, can be considered as fairly taken.

A large amount of liquor stored in East Boston has been seized by the Internal Revenue officers for not having the tax stamp and Inspector's mark upon it. The amount of the tax would be fifty thousand dollars.

Late Mexican advices mention that a severe fight occurred with guerrillas, near Vera Cruz, in which twenty-six of the Imperialist troops were killed, and also the Marshal Commandant at Vera Cruz.

Schooner Electric Light, from Portland for Philadelphia, was abandoned at sea 31st, off Cape Cod, with loss of foremast and other damage. Crew saved.

The Mexican schooner Red Cross, Capt SWINN, from New-Orleans, was totally lost in a severe norther at Vera Cruz on the 13th ult. Officers and crew saved.

A dispatch from Oregon reports the destruction by fire, on the 24th instant, of the Linn Company's Woolen Mills, at Brownsville, involving a loss of $60,000.

Sandwich dates to Feb. 25 report that the government is negotiating for the importation of Chinese laborers.

A fire at Oakland, Cal., on the 25th, destroyed a block of buildings worth fifty thousand dollars, very little of which is covered by insurance.

LOCAL NEWS.

The United States steam transport Gen. Sedgwick, Capt STARKEY, arrived at this port at noon yesterday, with twenty-nine persons saved from the wreck of the transport steamer Gen. Lyon. The Gen. Lyon left Wilmington for Fortress Monroe on Wednesday morning last, with from five to six hundred souls on board, and when off Cape Hatteras, in lat. 35°, long. 75° 35', took fire and burned to the water's edge. Twenty-nine persons were picked up by the Gen. Sedgwick—all the others are supposed to have perished. The sea was running so high at the time that only one boat succeeded in reaching the Gen. Sedgwick. The passengers of the ill-fated steamer consisted of paroled and discharged soldiers and refugees, among whom were about thirty women and twenty-five small children. The fire is supposed to have originated in the engine-room, from the breaking of a bottle of oil. When the Gen. Sedgwick left, the burning steamer was drifting in toward the breakers off Cape Hatteras.

The fourth anniversary of the capture of Fort Sumter is to be appropriately commemorated on the 14th instant, by the restoration of the identical flag which was lowered by ANDERSON and his brave garrison. Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER yesterday morning feelingly alluded to the matter, and announced to his congregation, that he had been invited to deliver the address on the occasion. He and numerous Government officials and guests of the government will take passage for Fort Sumter some time during the present week. Such of the public who wish to participate in the joyous event, will find the opportunity on board private steamers, of which, several are to make an excursion trip to the scene of the festivity.

The "Spiritualists and Progressionists" yesterday held a meeting at Hope Chapel, to respond to an appeal from their friends at Chicago, on behalf of the Spiritualist department of the Chicago Sanitary Fair of May 20. The meeting raised a contribution of over $380 on the spot, and chose a committee of twenty-eight persons, who are to organize and canvass this city.

The meeting last evening in aid of the American Union Commission, at the Academy, was full and enthusiastic. Speeches were made by Rev. Dr. CURRY, Col. N. G. Taylor, of East Tennessee, and Rev. Mr. SCUDDER, and were excellently well received.

Florence's Saloon, occupied by Mr. SAMUEL FELTER, on the southwest side of Broadway and Houston-street, was consumed, and other buildings adjoining were seriously damaged by fire and water at about 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

JOSEPH MINOLETTI, an Italian, who was recently run over by a car at the intersection of Broadway and Thirty-second-street, died at St. Luke's Hospital.

DENNIS EVERS, a seaman, was drowned from the ship Alexander Marshall, in the harbor, on Saturday.

The steamer Arago arrived yesterday from Port Royal. She brings no important news.

Referring to the prevalent active popular demand for government gold bearing securities, and the extreme depression in railway stocks, Messrs. JEROME, RIGGS & Co., in their financial circular of April 1, pertinently observe: "Another cause operating to the disadvantage of railway securities is the popularity of governments. The rate of interest they pay far exceeds the average income to be expected from railroads, and as the utmost confidence prevails in reference to them, they are absorbing nearly the whole available capital of the country.

The Stock Market was higher and firm at the close on Saturday. Gold rose to 154 in the evening, on the hasty calculation that GRANT'S battle might go against him. Money easy, and trade improving. Government Stocks steady, and the popular 7-30s in active demand again at the National Subscription Agencies.

The Grand Battle of the Rebellion.

The hot fury of battle has raged all but continuously, for three full days, along an inflected line which is now occupied by the main body of Gen. GRANT'S forces, and which has stretched from the Appomattox to the South Side Railroad.

While we write, the struggle between the war-worn veterans of the Army of the Potomac, and the best armed force the rebellion has left to it is, for the moment, closed. It now remains to be seen, in view of the terrible environment in which LEE finds the relics of his once formidable legions, whether he has resolved, in the very extremity of a hopeless and accursed cause, to entail upon the loyal heart of the nation the vindictive memory of needless and accumulated carnage.

In collating the fragments of the uncompleted story of this series of desperate engagements, we perhaps do well to follow as closely as we can the succinct reports which have been so opportunely and so promptly given to the public under the hand of the President—himself a near, and it would seem, an auspicious witness of the events he records.

The movement of the troops from in front of Petersburgh, which, by first appearances, might have involved nothing more than a cavalry advance to the South Side and Danville Railroads, will be seen to have developed a grand combination which has transferred the bulk of the Army of the James, under ORD, to the lines west of Petersburgh, and which has pushed that wing itself beyond the South Side Railroad.

The latest dates in our reports place Gen. ORD on what is now the right of our army, between the Appomattox and Hatcher's Run; the Fifth and Second Corps, with SHERIDAN'S cavalry, on the left, and the Sixth Corps on the centre of the line. So that the bulk of the army, north and south of the James, has been swung round since Wednesday last a distance of twenty-five miles, which has been gradually contracted, until last evening the whole line was intrenched from the Appomattox, below Petersburgh, to the river above.

The movement was commenced by Gen. ORD on Tuesday morning. On that day he began to cross his army over the James River at Deep Bottom and Jones' Neck. He had then to march over the Bermuda Hundred Peninsula; to cross the Appomattox on pontoon bridges at Point of Rocks, and thence he had a march of five miles to the nearest works in front of Petersburgh. Laborious as this movement must have been, we see how admirably timed it proved to be, and how thoroughly it dovetailed with the advance of our left on Wednesday morning. The first day's work, with the exception of the skirmish at Quaker road, seems to have involved nothing beyond the unopposed march of the main body of our infantry toward the Boydtown plank-road, the Fifth Corps leading, and SHERIDAN, with his cavalry, making his way without opposition by the Halifax road toward Dinwiddie Court-house. Thursday also found the rebels unprepared to offer any effective resistance, But the engagements which ensued on Friday, first between SHERIDAN'S force and the rebel cavalry under W. H. F. LEE and FITZHUGH LEE, near Powanty Creek, and next, between the Fifth and a portion of the Second Corps and two divisions of LONGSTREET'S corps, west of the Boydtown plank-road, show that LEE had begun to comprehend in part the scope of GRANT'S operations, and that whatever resistance he could offer, would thenceforth be employed.

It is needless to hide from ourselves that in both the cavalry and infantry engagements of Friday, our forces lost ground, and lost very considerably in killed, wounded and prisoners. These reverses, however, were fully compensated for in the subsequent engagements. The President's last dispatch, of Saturday's date, makes it clear that in the early part of that day the forces of SHERIDAN and WARREN combined had not only recovered their lost ground, but had pressed the rebels back to the White Oak road, within a short distance of the South Side Railroad. The subsequent operations of the day seem to have been crowned with unqualified success. "SHERIDAN," says Gen. GRANT'S Adjutant-General, "commanding cavalry and infantry, has carried everything before him. He captured three brigades of infantry, a wagon-train, and several batteries of artillery." The rebel prisoners taken in the engagements of Saturday will number, it is said, several thousand.

The President's telegrams of yesterday give still more decisive and cheering news. At an early hour the whole of our line, from right to left, was engaged with the rebels, and long before noon the battle was raging furiously, with everything looking favorably for our arms. Still later, the President announces that PARKE, WRIGHT and ORD'S lines were extending from the Appomattox to Hatcher's Run; the enemy's lines having been pierced, and several forts taken, with their contents of guns and prisoners: SHERIDAN, too, was closing in from the west, on the extreme left of our lines, while WRIGHT was "tearing up the South Side Railroad." But even this was but an earnest of the coming triumph which the day was to witness. Before noon, Gen. GRANT was able to report to the President that everything in front of our lines had been "carried," with forts, guns and prisoners, beyond his power of numbering.

Still later—and to wind up the splendid record—the President announces the capture of 12,000 prisoners and fifty pieces of artillery. Petersburgh at the same time being invested from the river below to the river above.

The operations thus far, it will be seen, do not include either the capture of the Burkesville Junction, or the destruction of any portion of the Danville Railroad by SHERIDAN. There might be cause for some disappointment at this seeming failure, were it not made apparent from the news of Gen STONEMAN'S movements, that the business of looking after that portion of LEE'S communications was taken care of before the Army of the Potomac began its advance. On Sunday last STONEMAN was reported near Bristol, on his way direct to Lynchburgh. One day later he had wheeled around toward North Carolina. His force was at Boone, Watauga County, N. C., on the 27th of March. By an easy ride he could thence strike the Danville road before the close of Thursday. So that before LEE had become fully aware of the nature of GRANT'S offensive movement, the chances are many to one that railroad communication between JOHNSTON and the rebel army of Virginia was effectually severed.

The forecast and skill of these vast military combinations of the Lieutenant-General, will be fully apparent when the results of the present gigantic struggle shall have been supplied to us in more ample detail than they are to-day. Enough, however, is now manifest to give the nation full assurance that the only formidable arm of the rebellion will shortly be struck powerless, and that that great end is now being reached not less by the strategic skill of the General-in-Chief, than by the hard and persistent battle-blows which have lent such conspicuous lustre to the valor of the national army.

The Celebration at Sumter—Its Proper Spirit and Character.

The formal re-hoisting of the old flag at Sumter, by Major-Gen. ANDERSON, on the anniversary of the day when it was there lowered, is calculated to give a new prestige to that emblem of our national unity and glory, and is in every way an excellent design. Perhaps it is well enough, moreover, though not wholly free from exception, that a citizen so full of patriotism and of oratorical power as HENRY WARD BEECHER—one, too, who is so well accredited to speak for the anti-slavery sentiment and the religious faith which have done so much to secure the triumph—should be selected to give the address on the occasion.

But it is to be earnestly hoped that every part of the proceedings will be clear of any appearance of exultation over a vanquished enemy. This ceremonial will occur at just the period when the Southern mind will be peculiarly susceptible to favorable or unfavorable influences, in respect to reconciliation with the North. The military struggle is nearly over. The manner in which the South shall return to the Union must soon be determined. It is vastly for the interest of the country that this return should be with a spirit free from grudge or malice, willing to bury the past, cheerfully accepting the altered situation, and zealous to build up on the ruins of the war a more solid prosperity than ever. If this is secured, very few years only will be required to assimilate the South thoroughly with every other part of the country, both in moral sentiment and in material well-being. If this is not secured the South will remain for generations a wretched appendage to the Union—ever vulnerable from without, ever generating trouble within.

There are men, though we trust few, who imagine that it is of little consequence how the Southern people may feel after the rebellion. That, practically, the government needs nothing but their submission. No error could be more fatal. The government must have loyalty as well as submission. The keeping down of any part of the republic by the strong arm merely, would be opposed to every republican principle. We cannot make vassals of the Southern people without making our whole constitutional system a mockery. The mere moral effect of such an inconsistency would blast every vital element in our free institutions. The government would only betray itself if it should undertake to bend Southern necks to a yoke. Its duty will be to win Southern hearts. Its business will be to inspire confidence and re-create attachment. Its policy should be such as to induce every Southern man to take the oath of allegiance as early as possible, and without reservation or misgiving. That oath will renew the elective franchise. If it is taken in a bad spirit it may work incalculable mischief. The Southern people, notwithstanding their great losses by the war, will possess nearly one-third of the electoral strength of the Union. Any discontent that should pervade them would combine their votes into a solid unit, and they would only have to bargain with trading politicians in the North to get the control of the government. The honor and safety of the Union might thus pass into the hands of those who bore the Union no good will, and the result might be calamity beyond measure.

The hearty reconciliation of the South to the North will depend quite as much upon the generous bearing of the Northern people as upon the wise policy of the Administration. We shall have to rid ourselves not only of every hostile feeling engendered by the war, but of all the sectional feelings that sprang from the political controversies which preceded the war. This is not a difficult task. The Southern people, for the most part, were betrayed into rebellion by the deceptions of their leaders. They honestly believed that they were using the only means that could protect their social system from ruin. They committed a dreadful error, but no man in the North can be sure that if he had been born in the South, and had been subject to the same influences, he would not, under the same circumstances, have done the same wrong. So far as respects the body of the Southern people, this rebellion was a misconception of the head rather than a criminal intent of the heart. To that extent they are entitled to our charity. The courage and endurance they have displayed through the fiery trials of the war also entitle them to our respect. In these qualities they have shown themselves true Americans, and worthy to be our brothers. These claims upon our charity and our respect are enough to neutralize all the heart-burnings of the war. As for the old sectional differences, not a trace of them should survive. The institution which was the most prolific source of the strife, has perished forever. The old protective-tariff controversy can never be revived again, for no Northern manufacture needs more protection than that which must necessarily result from such tariff imposts as the national debt will demand, nor will the Southern theories about State rights be ever again a subject for sectional variance; for these are mere abstractions, apart from practical nullification and secession, which have been forever crushed. There is absolutely nothing that preceded the rebellion, or that occasioned the rebellion, which ought to be perpetuated as a cause for sectional strife after the rebellion. It will be the duty of the Northern people to recognize this, and to guard against the removal of such strife by cherishing every kindly sentiment.

An earnest of this spirit ought to be given in the celebration at Fort Sumter. The occasion will be one that will attract attention throughout the South. It will come close home to the sensibilities of all its people; and if it be used for the indulgence of vainglorious exaltation and invidious comparisons, for the stirring up of unpleasant memories, for the venting of new threats, for the discharge of epithets and taunts and slurs, it will produce untold evil. Not a word ought to be uttered calculated to irritate or humiliate. The victory of the national arms is palpable enough and signal enough to carry its own lessons for the vanquished. Glorious as it would otherwise be, its glory is sadly dimmed by the fact that it has been gained over our own countrymen. The cypress may as fitly figure in its commemoration as the laurel. We have confidence that this will be a solemn manifestation at Fort Sumter rather than a gay jubilee—that it will be a first pledge that the government and the Northern people are possessed with a genuine all-controlling American feeling. If the Southern people receive that clear token, it will have an immense influence in opening the way to a speedy peace, and a renewal of brotherhood. What they need is not mercy for the leaders who beguiled and betrayed them, but an assurance that, so far as regards themselves, we can be forgiving and generous.

DRAFTING AND VOLUNTEERING.—We take it for granted that the authorities do not intend to press a rigid enforcement of the draft in this city, until our citizens have had a fair chance to fill the quotas by recruits. In certain districts notices have already been served upon drafted men, and it is said that whenever such a man presents himself at the headquarters of his district, he is to be sent forthwith to Hart's Island; while if he does not present himself, he is to be regarded and treated as a deserter. We shall not credit this until we see it in actual operation.

It is alleged that the Government must have the men, and that if they are not raised by volunteering, they must be raised by draft, undoubtedly: but we are also entitled to the brief time required for getting the machinery for raising recruits into working order. There is no doubt that volunteers can be raised with the bounties offered,—but temporarily those bounties cannot be paid for lack of money. Gov. FENTON informs the County Committee that on Saturday, three millions and a half had been subscribed to the new loan. "A large portion of this amount," he adds, "will probably be needed to pay drafted men," and therefore, none can at present be furnished for volunteers and substitutes. How long we are to wait on these official uncertainties, we cannot tell, but not many days, it is to be presumed. As soon as the money is furnished volunteers and substitutes can be had, and it is certainly much wiser for the authorities to take into account the causes of the present delay, than to press measures of force with needless haste.

CHANGE OF TONE.—When the first law authorizing a draft was issued, it contained a provision that any person might be exempted from the draft on payment of $300. This clause was most vehemently denounced by the enemies of the Administration and by many who claimed to be its friends, as a provision for the benefit of the rich. Any man who could raise $300, it was said, could be exempt, while the poor man who could not raise that sum must go to the war. It was urged in reply that this exemption clause was really for the benefit of the poor man, because it fixed a limit to the price of exemption,—whereas if every man had to go or furnish a substitute, the price of substitutes would rise to a much higher figure. Still, the clamor against the clause carried the day, and after contributing largely to the riots of 1863, succeeded in repealing that section of the law. Under the present law, which was put in its place, every drafted man, rich or poor, must procure a substitute or go himself; and the price of substitutes ranges from $800 to $1,200. Which of the two was really for the benefit of the poor man?

BRITISH LAW IN CANADA.—Our Canadian neighbors will scarcely reproach us much longer with the defects of our judicial system. We complain a good deal ourselves sometimes of the evils of an elective judiciary, but we shall very easily be reconciled to the worst of them by such examples as Canada gives us of the practical working of the system of appointments. While such luminaries as COURSOL and SMITH adorn the provincial bench, we cannot doubt that a constitutional monarchy can put as great fools into as high places as a republic. Indeed, thus far the monarchy is a "leetle ahead." Meantime, the "mother country" would do well to settle the question, whether she will defend Canada or not, as speedily as possible, for she cannot expect us to submit permanently to such a neighborhood as the decisions of these Solons would give us. If Southern rebels are entitled to belligerent rights on Canadian soil, and if they can therefore with impunity organize in Canada maraunding expeditions upon our towns and cities, we must be excused for not perceiving the difference between Canada and Carolina. Gen. DIX'S order may be reissued by competent authority.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, April 2.

THE GREAT CONTEST—ANXIETY FOR NEWS.

The entire interest of Washington seems centered to-day and this evening at the front and upon War Department bulletins. The news of yesterday's victory was generally known at an early hour this morning, and special thanks for it were rendered in several of the churches. As soon as it became known that a general assault along our whole line was made this morning, hundreds of persons appeared upon the street; and the hotels, newspaper offices, and all other places where it was supposed news could be obtained, were immediately thronged with inquiring people. All four of the daily papers got out extras as soon as possible, and altogether the day has been the most exciting one in Washington for a long time. In explanation of the President's dispatches, perhaps it may be necessary to say that Gen. ORD is not on the north side of James River, but on the south side and midway in our long line below Petersburgh, and that Gen. WRIGHT'S corps, the Sixth, is second in our line from the Appomattox, and that the point where the Southside Road has been seized by him cannot be very far from Petersburgh. The President still remains at City Point, but Mrs. LINCOLN and her friends returned this morning.

APPOINTMENTS IN HANCOCK'S CORPS.

The following additional appointments have been made for Maj.-Gen. HANCOCK'S First Army Corps: Lieut-Colonel, W. G. MAAN; Captains, Henry S. Rice, John W. Clark, L. Cohn, Lawrence Bustein, J. C. Donahuer, C. Dalrymple, Alexander Darling, John D. Simpson. First Lieutenants, Jas. L. Graham, David B. Little, Jas. J. McCormick, Bernard Reilly, Jos. C. W. Hall. Second Lieut., M. C. Foot. Surgeons F. Reynolds, Joseph Stevens, David Merritt; Assistant Surgeons G. W. Miller, C. T. Trautman, R. E. Paine, Geo. W. Cummings. The corps is understood to be progressing finely. It is expected that Gen. HANCOCK will soon return to it. His appointment in the Shenandoah Valley being merely of temporary character.

TAMPERING WITH THE DRAFT.

The military commission sitting in this city has just finished the case of WALTER H. HOLMES, charged with erasing names from the enrollment lists and with abstracting cards intended to be placed in the wheel from the office of the Board of Enrollment in the Second New-York District. The decision and sentence are not yet known.

ON A FURLOUGH.

Col. WM. DE LACY, of the One Hundred and Sixty-fourth New-York Volunteers, CORCORAN'S Legion formerly, arrived in this city yesterday en route to New-York City on thirty days' furlough.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

A FREEDMEN'S NATIONAL BANK.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, April 2.

Several days ago, a dozen colored men from Boston, New-York, Philadelphia, Washington and elsewhere, met by invitation at the room of Senator POMEROY, of Kansas, to initiate measures for establishing a freedmen's national bank, to be located in this city. One of the colored men is reported to be worth $150,000, which he has invested in government securities. There was wealth enough amongst them to subscribe to a capital of $200,000. Application was accordingly made to the Comptroller of the Currency for the proper authorization to establish such bank. This request will be granted, provided the State banks converting themselves into national banks, which have a preference, shall not absorb the limit of the aggregate capital prescribed by Congress. A final decision will be given after the 1st of July next on the application for a Freedman's Bank.

DREADFUL FIRE AT SEA.

FIVE HUNDRED LIVES LOST

The U. S. Transport Steamer General Lyon Burned Off Cape Hatteras.

Invalid Troops, Refugees, and Women and Children on Board.

The steamer Gen. Sedgwick, which arrived at this port at noon yesterday, brought as passengers twenty-nine persons saved from the wreck of the transport steamer Gen. Lyon, which took fire off Cape Hatteras on the morning of Friday last, and was totally destroyed. The Gen. Lyon had on board from five hundred and fifty to six hundred souls. The twenty-nine who arrived here yesterday are believed to be all that was saved.

It appears from the statements of these men that the Gen. Lyon, a screw steamer which had formerly been used as a blockade-runner, sailed from Wilmington for Fortress Monroe, on the morning of Wednesday last, with nearly six hundred persons on board, including the crew.

Her passengers consisted of discharged and paroled soldiers, escaped prisoners and refugees, among whom were about thirty women and twenty-five small children. Two negroes were also among the refugees. The weather was fair on leaving Wilmington, but the steamer put into the port of Smithfield for the night and resumed her voyage on the following morning. Soon after leaving Smithfield the wind, which was blowing from the southwest, increased in violence, and the vessel, which was a very slow one, made but little progress. At ten o'clock on Friday morning she was off Cape Hatteras, the wind having increased to a hurricane and the sea running very high. It is believed that the vessel was about sixty miles from land when an alarm of fire was given, and in a few minutes afterward the flames broke out at the rear of the pilot-house and nearly in the centre of the vessel. Several of the crew were in the rigging, and there were very few persons on deck at the time, many of the passengers being confined to their berths by sickness. The first mate, JAMES GIBBS, and the other officers of the vessel immediately got the fire pumps to work, with which, and the requisite quantity of hose, the vessel was well provided. But the flames steadily gained headway, and although the pumps were worked with unflinching perseverance, the fire soon spread over the centre portion of the deck, driving the crew and those who were assisting them to the stern and bow of the vessel. The hatches had been closed in consequence of the decks being so constantly under water, but those below, alarmed by the smoke which was spreading through the cabins, rushed on deck only to be driven back by the flames. The frightful shrieks of the women and children, and their piteous supplications for help were drowned by the roaring of the storm. Several of the paroled soldiers were sick and confined to their berths. Some of them managed to crawl on deck, and clung there until washed overboard by the waves. In about half an hour after the fire broke out, the engines partially stopped, and the vessel immediately swung round with her broadside to the wind, the flames then spreading across the deck.

It had now became quite evident that the ship could not be saved. The first officer acted with great courage, and only abandoned the vessel when all hopes of saving her were gone. The fire-pumps were still kept at work, and the flames were fought back with great determination. Many of those below were doubtless already suffocated. The shrieks and moans of the dying came up to those on deck, but they could do nothing to help them. Just at this time a steamer, which proved to be the United States transport Gen. Sedgwick, Capt. STARKEY, and a small schooner, hove in sight. But neither of them could render any assistance, owing to the violence of the storm, and the fact that the burning steamer had drifted in toward the breakers. The flames were now spreading with fearful rapidity. The boats were launched, although there appeared to be little hope of their living in such a sea. Into the first boat ten men lowered themselves, including the Captain of the General Lyon. It is affirmed by several of those who escaped that the Captain had lost all control of himself, and was evidently crazed with fear. Hardly had this boat been loosed from the vessel's side than she drifted under her stern, was struck by the screw, and almost instantly went down. ISAAC LEWIS, a private in the Eighty-ninth New-York Regiment, who was in the boat at the time, states that he saw the Captain sink. Lewis and two others alone escaped. A second boat was launched, and in this twenty-seven persons, including the First Mate, JOHN HAYDON, lowered themselves and succeeded in reaching the General Sedgwick, which was about a mile and a half distant. As the boat touched the steamer's side a wave dashed her violently against it, and she filled and went down. Of the twenty-seven persons in the boat, seven only were saved. Among these were the Mate, JAMES GIBBS, BARNEY LESEY, of the Fifth Virginia Regiment, and JOHN FITZGERALD, of the Fifty-sixth Illinois. In the meantime a number of the men had thrown themselves overboard, trusting to a spar for support. One man, ISAIAH C. COLBY, of the Fifth Ohio Cavalry, after working at the fire pumps until he was almost exhausted, seized one of the doors of the galley and sprang overboard. He was in the water three hours before he was picked up. Others were also in the water for several hours, and many, doubtless, sank before assistance could be rendered. It is supposed that the schooner did not succeed in rescuing any of them. So far as known, the following are the only persons saved out of a total of from 550 to 600:

Barnet Lesey, Co. G, Fifth Virginia; M. H. Arment, Co. E, Fifty-sixth Illinois; John Kreusen, Co. F, Third Pennsylvania H. A.; Irah Lewis, Co. A, Eighty-ninth New-York; Michael S. Brocket, Co. F, Fifty-sixth Illinois; Robt. Simpson, corporal, Co. S, Fifty-fourth Ohio; Thos. Farrar, refugee, Wilmington, N. C.; Jas. Edwards, sergeant, Ninety-ninth New York; Silas Galloway, Fifty-sixth New-York; Clarence Dunn, refugee; Geo. Murphy, Co. A, Sixth New-York H. A.; Geo. Goole, Co. F, One Hundred and Forty-fourth New-York; C. M. Dodson, Third Pennsylvania H. A.; Jos. Fitzgerald, Co. K, Fifty-second Illinois; Jas. Dempsey, fireman, steamer General Lyon; Stephen Russell, refugee; Thomas Cooney, sailor, General Lyon; Nicholas Brown, sailor, steamer General Lyon; Geo. W. Williams, Co. G, Fifty-sixth Illinois; Pat. Bryan, coal-passer, steamer General Lyon; Richard Clarke, Co. F, Second Illinois L. A.; John Peoples, oiler, steamer General Lyon; Isaiah Cleoliv, Co. K, Fifth Ohio Cav.; Cyrus P. Williams, Co. F, Third Pennsylvania Art.; James Gibbs, first officer, steamer General Lyon; Wm. Cranston, chief engineer, Saml. Pressey, first cook, (colored,) steamer General Lyon; Chas. A. Brady, refugee.

When the General Sedgwick left, being unable to render further assistance, the ill-fated steamer was drifting in toward the frightful breakers off Cape Hatteras. She was then burned down to the water's edge, and every soul on board had doubtless perished.

In regard to the origin of the fire, it was stated by the First Mate, while on board the General Sedgwick, that there were several barrels of Kerosene oil in the engine-room, and these being shaken down by the rolling of the vessel fell on the boiler, and of course were quickly ignited. A barrel of oil was also kept in the same room, and this served to feed the flames.

A list of the passengers has not yet come to hand, but the following officers of the Fifty-sixth Illinois Regiment were known to be on board:

Major Fiess, Lieut. Rankin, Co. A; Capt. Tanquery, Co. B; Lieut. McKenzie, Co. B; Lieut. Lewis, Co C.; Capt. Wenel, Co. E; Lieut. Joiner, Co. E; Lieut. Dunlap, Co. F; Lieut. Goudy, Co. G; Lieut. Holbeck, Co. H.

There were also 200 men of this regiment on board, only five of whom are recorded as among the saved.

Of the soldiers saved eight or ten are at the New-York State Soldier's Depot, Nos. 50 and 52 Howard-street, of which Col. VINCENT COLYER is Superintendent. They had of course lost their all, and were supplied with the necessary clothing by the Superintendent. Several of them are sick and confined to their beds. They will remain at the depot, where every comfort is afforded them free of all cost until forwarded to their respective destinations.

The following among the officers and crew of the General Lyon did not sail with her, being left sick in hospital at Wilmington:

John Haydon, First Officer; Philip Smith, First Assistant Engineer; Geo. Gillespie, Second do.; Owen Dagger, oiler; Richard Dazie, coal passer; Wm. Brown, second cook; Alino Dee, waiter.

Election in Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Saturday, April 1—12 P. M.

The municipal election took place in this city today. There were four candidates for the Mayoralty to be held. PHILIP TOMPERT, Democrat, was elected Mayor by 400 plurality over ——, Republican, and leads about 100 of a majority over all competitors.

THE DRAFT.

Recruiting Better on Saturday—State Bounty Money Not Yet Forthcoming—Explanation of Gov. Fenton—The Draft in the Fifth, Seventh and Ninth Districts—Conscripts Ordered to Report—Ward Meetings.

Supervisor BLUNT was actively engaged on Saturday in enlisting volunteers at the Park Barracks. Thirty men were secured, which is a large number for a Saturday's work. The subscriptions to the Bounty Fund Loan amounted to $75,000, and a much larger sum is expected to-day.

The Volunteer Committee will have to rely entirely upon the subscriptions to the Bounty Loan Fund for the means with which to fill the quota, there being no indications at present of receiving any of the State bounty money. Mr. BLUNT has received the following explanatory telegram from Gov. FENTON:

ALBANY, Friday, March 31, 1865.

ORISON BLUNT:

The last report from the Comptroller gives three millions five hundred thousand dollars subscriptions to the loan. A large portion of this amount will probably be needed to pay drafted men. As soon as a sufficient amount is taken to justify payments to volunteers and substitutes, my Paymaster-General will go to your city and aid you. E. E. FENTON.

Until further orders the draft will not proceed in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Wards. The quota of the Thirteenth is 587—per centage added, 1,174. That of the Fourteenth, 591—per centage added 1,182.

In the Seventh District Capt. WAGNER resumed the draft in the Eleventh Ward, beginning the additional hundred per cent., the original quota having been previously drawn. The ward will be concluded to-day. During Saturday a number of volunteers were accepted, citizens of the district having advanced the Provost-Marshal funds for that purpose.

In the Ninth District Capt. DUNNING drew the original quota of the Nineteenth Ward. In the Fifth District the drawing in the Seventh Ward was completed.

Capt. DUNNING called the attention of the representatives of the press to section 5 of the amendatory act of July, 1864, about which he states there appears to be considerable ignorance on the part of the public. The portion to which he specifically called attention reads:

* * * "And if such substitute is liable to draft, the name of the person furnishing him shall again be placed on the roll, and shall be liable to draft on future calls, but not until the present enrollment shall be exhausted; and this exemption shall not excuse the town for which such person shall have been drafted."

So that a party drafted may furnish as a substitute his next-door neighbor, and be himself exempted until a new call takes place. The result of this section manifestly should be to enlarge the range of available substitutes, and take it out of the hands of the few who, under the other provisions of the law, are acceptable substitutes, (i. e., not liable to draft,) and thus at once reduce the price of substitutes within the means of nearly all those drafted. As the substitute business now stands, it is a monopoly, which bears more heavily upon the man of limited means than any other, and should be met by every method available to drafted men.

To-day the draft will be prosecuted in the Eleventh, Nineteenth and Twenty-first Wards.

Several of the Provost-Marshals have notified drafted men to report. The latter will be immediately held to service if accepted, and the officers, to prevent hardship or suffering, desire that all persons who believe they are liable should bring their substitutes with them when they appear for examination.

EQUALIZATION OF HAND-MONEY.

An adjourned meeting of delegates from the various wards was held on Saturday evening at No. 185 Sixth-av., for the purpose of rescinding a resolution passed at a former meeting, binding the executive committees of the wards to pay only twenty dollars hand-money for volunteers.

Mr. A. GOODRICH FAY was elected chairman.

Remarks were made by several delegates, when it was concluded that volunteering in the various wards would be facilitated by the executive committees regulating the amount of hand-money to be paid in their respective wards, and the meeting adjourned sine die.

MEETING IN THE TWENTIETH WARD.

A large meeting of citizens of the Twentieth Ward was held at the corner of Thirty-third-street and Eighth-avenue on Saturday evening, for the purpose of devising means to relieve drafted men and fill the quota of the ward.

Supervisor WILLIAM R. STEWART presided. After stating the object of the meeting, he introduced Alderman BRICE, Chairman of the Ward Executive Committee, who said that the members of the Finance Committee had visited a large number of citizens in the ward, and had met with some success in collecting subscriptions. He had, himself, called on the Comptroller, and suggested the issue of county bonds of small denominations—$50 and $100—and he had also inquired of the Comptroller whether he could not place some of these small bonds at the disposal of the Ward Committees. The Comptroller said he had no power to do so, as the interest on the bonds was payable by a tax on the whole county, and not on any particular ward.

Alderman BRICE also said that some work had already been done without a dollar having been expended. The original quota of the ward was 1,180, but this had been reduced to 955. He hoped that the citizens would place sufficient funds in the hands of the committee to enable them to reduce the quota still further.

The chairman said that subscriptions to the county bonds had come in rather more liberally lately, and on Monday morning Mr. BLUNT would commence operations with a cash balance of $60,000.

Alderman HARDY made a stirring speech, and was followed by others, after which a liberal subscription was made, and the meeting adjourned.

MEETING IN THE FOURTH WARD.

A meeting of citizens of the Fourth Ward took place on Saturday evening at Tammany Hall. Mr. WM P. KIRK occupied the chair.

The Finance Committee reported progress. The total amount collected and subscribed in the ward up to the present time is $2,732. The Finance Committee are diligently at work in all the election districts of the ward, and this amount will soon be largely increased.

Remarks were made by Provost-Marshal EBBARDT, who said that forty men had been credited to the ward during the week. But this was not enough; eight men per day was the smallest number that should be offered.

After speeches by Mr. B. J. WARD and others, it was announced that the Executive Committee will be ready to receive recruits at No. 175 Pearl-street to-day. The meeting then adjourned.

MASS MEETING IN THE THIRD WARD.

A mass meeting of citizens of the Third Ward and others who feel an interest in clearing that ward from the impending draft, is to be held to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, in the hall at No. 193 Fulton-street. The Ward Volunteering Committee have been quite successful in collecting funds to be applied to the payment of hand-money to volunteers and others, and they believe that the Third Ward may fill its quota without a draft if the citizens will but put their shoulders to the wheel.

MASS MEETING IN THE FIFTH WARD.

The Ward Volunteering Committee, of which Dr. WILLIAM B. EAGER is Chairman, have called a mass meeting, and it is hoped that Fifth Warders will come out in large numbers to hear the speakers, this evening at 8 o'clock, at Laird's Fifth Ward Hotel. Many substantial citizens of the ward, who are exempt, and have not even a single relative that is liable to the draft, have subscribed with commendable liberality toward the hand-money fund, and they have assurance that a draft may be avoided, if only every person who is liable will contribute such sum as he may be able, to add to the common fund.

We learn from the committee—Dr. WM. B. EAGER, JAMES M. TUTHILL, and A. J. PLUMB—that they secured last week $6,000 and forty men. The ward committees on finance, recruits and substitutes will report at the meeting this evening.

The Third District Draft.

MAJ. DODGE'S ORDER—NON-REPORTING CONSCRIPTS TO BE HELD AS DESERTERS.

The following is Maj. DODGE'S letter, ordering a supplementary draft to-day:

OFFICE A. A. PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL, SUPERINTENDENT VOL. RECRUITING SERVICE, SOUTHERN DIVISION, N. YORK. NEW-YORK, March 30, 1865.

Capt. E. B. Fowler, Provost-Marshal, Third District, Brooklyn, N. Y.:

CAPTAIN—You will proceed to make a supplementary draft in the Fifth Sub-District, Third Congressional District, for the deficiency on the last draft, with one hundred per cent. added.

Should this fail in filling the quota you will continue, without further orders from this office, to make supplemental drafts for the deficiencies until the quota is complete.

An accurate list of those who fail to report will be kept. This will at a future date be published, that these men may be proceeded against under section twenty-one, act approved March 3, 1865.

It is further distinctly to be understood that any man who fails to report is a deserter, and if subsequently he should be arrested and pass the examination of the board, he will be held and sent to a regiment, even though the quota of the sub-district to which he belongs be already filled. I am, Captain, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

RICHARD J. DODGE,
Maj. Twelfth Infantry, A. A. P. M. General.

Board of Supervisors.

THE REVISED ENROLLMENT—THE STATE BOUNTY LOAN—THE TRANSFER OF EMIGRANTS TO WARD'S ISLAND.

A special meeting of this board was held at 2 o'clock yesterday, Mr. TWEED in the Chair.

A resolution was adopted empowering the Comptroller to raise the sum of $10,000 for the use of the Children's Aid Society, as directed by law.

Mr. ELY said he wished to ask the Chairman of the County Committee on Volunteering for what reason the revision of the enrollment law had been suspended.

Mr. BLUNT, Chairman of the committee, said the enrollment had been completed, but the Provost-Marshals were not ready to receive it.

Mr. ELY said he considered that the Provost-Marshal-General had not acted in good faith toward the city. If the revised enrollment had been received the quota of this city would have been reduced about 7,000.

He offered a resolution to the effect that the County Committee on Volunteering be instructed to confer with the Provost-Marshal General in relation to the acceptance of the revised enrollment. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. TWEED said he had been repeatedly asked by inhabitants of the various wards whether or not if funds were raised in any particular ward for the payment of bounties, these funds could be kept for the exclusive benefit of the ward. He thought it might be well, as there appeared to be some anxiety about the matter, for the board to take some action thereon.

Mr. PURDY said he was opposed to any legislation upon the subject. The funds raised should be used for the joint benefit of all; if used otherwise the rich wards would escape and the poor ones have to sustain the whole burden. The subject was then dropped.

Mr. ELY said as it appeared the State authorities were experiencing some difficulty in placing the Bounty Loan, he thought it would be well if the State would transfer a portion of the bonds to the county in payment of the amount expended in bounties. These bonds could be readily disposed of here, and funds could thus be raised for procuring volunteers. Mr. ELY then offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Governor of the State be requested to transfer to this county $2,000,000 of 7-30 war bonds on account of the proportion due to this county from the State, or so much thereof as will not prove prejudicial to the interests of the State, and that the Special Committee on Volunteers confer with the Governor and report to this board.

The resolution was adopted.

Mr. DAVIS offered a resolution, which was adopted, to the effect that the board should remonstrate against the transference to Ward's Island of emigrants afflicted with infectious diseases.

Mr. FOX said he had been informed that the Committee on Volunteering declined to receive any more three-years' men.

Mr. BLUNT said the President's call was for one-year men, and that consequently the county got as much credit for one-year men as for three years. At the same time, by receiving only one-year men there was a great saving in the amount expended on bounties.

Mr. FOX said that might be the case, but, at the same time, the county was losing a good many recruits.

Mr. BLUNT replied that the county was losing them because the committee had not the money to pay them.

The board then adjourned.

AFFAIRS IN ALBANY.

Draft Money Enough—Death of Surgeon-Gen. Willard—Surgeons Sent to Grant's Army.

ALBANY, Sunday, April 2.

Gov. FENTON says there is money sufficient to pay drafted men and probably something more, and there is fair prospects of additional subscriptions to the State loan. The bonds are now ready for payment to towns, cities and counties upon proper proofs being furnished to the Paymaster-General of the muster in and credit of men. He will forward circulars with instructions to-morrow by mail to supervisors and representative agents of localities.

J. D. WILLARD, Surgeon-General on Gov. FENTON'S staff, died this evening.

Gov. FENTON, on learning from the Secretary-of-War that a great battle had been fought, made arrangements for sending forward to the army several surgeons, to take charge of the wounded soldiers from this State. They leave early Monday morning.

All Fools Day—Election of a Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Saturday, April 1.

A portion of the members of the two Houses of the Legislature have made it a point to observe this 1st day of April as "All Fools Day." In the Assembly members have from time to time visited the Speaker's chair in answer to supposed private messages, forwarded to them by an enterprising lobbyist, with the aid and connivance of a group of fun-loving members. In each case the victimized member would be informed by the presiding officer that he had not been sent for, but had probably been made the victim of a joke. As the member would turn embarrassed and blushing away, and would meet the gaze of the practical jokers, I was reminded of some lines that used to interest me in an old almanac:

"It long has been a thing disputed,
Which should be the greatest fool reputed,
He who innocently went,
Or he who him designedly sent."

The speaker evidently was inclined to regard the latter individual as entitled to the preëminence in stultification. He at length reminded members that it was the 1st day of April, and furthermore announced, that if he desired to see members he would send a messenger direct from the chair to ask their attendance. In the Senate, a bogus bill was introduced, and made some talk, but the proceeding was frowned down as unworthy the dignity of that body. On the whole, All Fool's Day was best celebrated by the Legislature, forty-eight hours in advance, the evening after the passage of the Paid Fire Department Bill.

A Superintendent of Public Instruction is to be elected on Tuesday next, at 12 o'clock M. I hear no candidate mentioned but the present incumbent, VICTOR M. RICE.

The Gwin Colonization Project—Explanation by his California Friends—He is not a Duke—He will soon be in Sonora with a French Force under Marshal Bazaine.

SAN FRANCISCO, Saturday, March 25.

The Democratic Press of this city, which seems to have had the confidence of GWIN'S agents, and has been encouraging emigration to Mexico under his auspices, disregards the denials which come from Europe as to GWIN'S colonization scheme, and says: "The arrangements between GWIN and the Emperors of France and Mexico, which we published in January, came to us direct from the City of Mexico, under advisement of the Marquis of MONTHALON, the French Minister, and under the sign manual of MAXIMILIAN, the Emperor, through accredited agents, of both powers. If there has been any change in the arrangements since, there are no means by which the fact could have reached the public prints of the United States or here in advance of our advices upon the same subject. We are yet ignorant of any such change. We never credited the report that GWIN had been created a Duke, or that MAXIMILIAN had ceded the dominion of any part of the Mexican territory to the French Government, but on the contrary explicitly stated that GWIN had not become a subject of either monarch, and was but the trustee of both to administer the resources of the territory for the French indemnity, subject to the Mexican Government. GWIN is invested with plenary powers to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the Mexican Government, but nothing in these powers shall be so construed as to prejudice any of the claims of the empire or of any particular State."

SAN FRANCISCO, Monday, March 27.

The Democratic Press says it has learned directly since its last article on the subject, that GWIN left Havana for France Feb. 11, and that he expects to be in Sonora, accompanied by Marshal BAZAINE and French troops, by the middle of May. Nothing has occurred at the date of his sailing from Havana to interfere with his projects in Mexico.

Perry's Moth and Freckle Lotion.

Chloasma, or Mothpatch, (also called Liverspot,) and Lentigo or Freckles, are often very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, for the discolored spots show more plainly on the face of a blonde than of a brunette; but they greatly mar the beauty of either; and the preparation that will effectually remove them WITHOUT INJURING THE TEXTURE OR COLOR OF THE SKIN, is certainly a desideratum. Dr. B. C. PERRY, who has made diseases of the skin a specialty, has discovered a remedy for these discolorations, which is at once prompt, infallible and harmless.

The property of this company consists of the fee simple of the valuable Steadwell or FULLER FARM, near the junction of Wolf Run and Sugar Creek, Jackson Township, Venango County, Penn.

It embraces 122 acres of heavy oil boring territory in the richest portion of the new famous Sugar Creek Valley. Two wells are going down. There is room for five hundred more. The Superintendent is constantly applied to for leases, but will sink other wells solely for the company's account and retain the entire oil product.

With this intent the shares constituting the WORKING CAPITAL are now open to subscription for a short time only. The trustees will refrain from lengthy advertisement of the prospects of the SUGAR CREEK PETROLEUM COMPANY, and content themselves with pointing to the features which distinguish it from many enterprises of the day.

The stock is not "watered." The projectors depend for their profits solely on a rise in its market price. But a few thousand shares will be sold, and these on the only honest basis, viz., at their par value. The company's property is worth more than the entire capital stock. The latter is so small, indeed, that even a ten-barrel well will pay for regular monthly dividends. The Sugar Creek Wells are but half as expensive, and the oil is twice as valuable as the wells and oil either of Oil Creek or Cherry Run.

Prospectuses and maps can be obtained and subscriptions effected by application to SAWYER & JUDSON, No. 84 Chambers-st; CHARLES GOULD, No. 56 Wall-st; J. L. EVERITT, Broadway Bank, or to either of the trustees.

Subscription books, for the sale of the stock reserved as working capital, are opened for a limited period at the office of E. C. STEDMAN & CO., Bankers and Brokers, No. 57 Exchange-place, New-York.

MR. PLACIDE'S PERFORMANCE LAST SATURDAY EVENING ESTABLISHED THE SUCCESS OF THE PLAY. IT WAS REMARKABLE FOR ITS EARNEST FEELING AND ITS THOROUGH SINCERITY AND DEVOTION. THE AUDIENCE TESTIFIED THEIR UTMOST APPRECIATION OF HIS ACTING AT EVERY POINT. HE WAS ENERGETICALLY APPLAUDED THROUGHOUT—NOT LESS IN THE HAUNTY SCENES OF THE OPENING ACT THAN IN HIS OVERPLAY OF MUTE ANGUISH AND DESPAIR TOWARD THE CLOSE, AND WAS TWICE COMPLIMENTED BY A CALL BEFORE THE CURTAIN.—New-York Tribune.
The other characters by Messrs. J. G. HANLEY, WALCOT, CLARKE, KEMBLE, MASON, FAWCETT, EBERLE; Misses ADA CLIFTON, MARY CARR; Mesdames SKOLEY, BROWN and WALCOT.
The other characters in the piece were generally well represented—some of them even admirably. Miss Ada Clifton, as Nina de Rantzberg, showed all the necessary dignity and delicacy. Mrs. Walcot made the part of Genevieve, a most interesting picture of youthful innocence and gentleness. Miss Carr did not suffer the brevity of her role to interfere with the spirit of its interpretation. Mrs. Sedley Brown's performance was a special feature. The character of Marietta seemed to give her the best opportunity for the season for displaying her lively and vivacious qualities. No better soubrette of its kind has been seen upon our stage; and we do not at present recall another instance of equal picturesqueness, and at the same time equal fidelity, in the important matter of costumes. Miss Glassford, the little child who appeared in the first act, fulfilled her short part with winning frankness and intelligence.—N. Y. Tribune.

THE FOURTEENTH OF APRIL.

Restoration of the Stars and Stripes at Fort Sumter—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's Announcement to his Congregation that he will make the Address.

Preparations are in progress by the government to celebrate in a becoming spirit the restoration of Fort Sumter to the national authority. The day appropriately decided upon for the interesting event is the 14th inst., that being the fourth anniversary of the sorrowful time when the flag of the Union was lowered by the gallant ANDERSON and his brave band after a stout resistance to the overwhelming assaults of the misguided men of South Carolina. The identical flag which was shot away by the rebels, and afterward nailed to its staff amid the storm of shell by PETER HART, the heroic policeman, is again to be given to the breeze, thus vindicating, by poetic justice, the honor and integrity of the nation.

The government officials, chief among whom will be Gen. ANDERSON, and the guests of the government, comprising mainly the Governors of the loyal States, and Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER, who has been invited to make the address on the patriotic occasion, will leave New-York toward the close of the week, on board the splendid steamship Arago. The patriotic public who have the means and time at their disposal are not, however, prohibited from participation in what must assuredly be a memorable event to all who witness it. The Secretary of War, removing all restrictions, gives a carte blanche to all who desire to go by private conveyance, and already several first-class steamships are announced to take excursionists to the scene of festivity. The fare for the round trip, we are informed, has been fixed at $100, including board, which is by no means an unreasonable sum. The excursionists will probably be about ten days, and will have a chance of visiting Savannah and Port Royal, as well as Charleston, and possibly on the return trip will touch at Hampton Roads.

At the morning service in Plymouth Church, yesterday, Mr. BEECHER formally announced to his congregation the fact, of which most of them had prior knowledge, that he should be absent from his usual post of duty for the next two Sabbaths. He said that he had been called upon to accompany the members of the government and the officers of the army as they go to raise again over the ruins of Fort Sumter the national ensign. At other times, when the prospect of lifting the flag to its former place seemed almost visionary, he had spoken of such an event with jubilation. But now as the time in reality drew near his soul trembled within him at its solemn meaning. Many would go there imbued with this feeling of solemn jubilation, in this wonderful event in the history of this people. He should be sorry if any went there with any other feeling than that of Christian patriotism. If others went with feelings of exultation over a fallen foe, for his part he went as a brother to appeal to misled brethren from the day of their misapprehension to the day of knowledge. It would be to say to them that, after four years of blood and darkness, we had brought back to them the same hearts of love that they had smitten in these long four years. If there be any minded in that spirit to go, praying the blessing of God to rest not on the Nationals, but on the whole distracted country, he would welcome them. After adverting to the fact that the government steamer would only carry officials, but that excursionists would have opportunities to go by private vessels, Mr. BEECHER continued his remarks by stating that the brethren of the church had prepared resolutions expressive of the feelings of the church in regard to this most important event. These resolutions would be brought up after the lecture on Wednesday evening, and, if approved, would be in some sense his commission to address the people of the South, exhibiting the feeling of Christian fellowship entertained for them.

Mr. BEECHER preached an eloquent sermon from the text "All things work together for good to those who love God," and had given out the closing hymn, when he received a telegram from Secretary STANTON announcing the successes of our army. This he read, exciting the sympathies of his audience to a burst of patriotic applause. Instead of the hymn first announced, "America" was substituted, which the congregation sang with great fervor and much manifestation of heartfelt joy.

Sanitary Spiritualist Convention.

The meeting of "Spiritualists and Progressionists" at Hope Chapel, to hear the appeal for contributions to the department appropriated to those of the Spiritualist and Progressionist belief in the Sanitary Fair of May 20, at Chicago, met (as announced, and organized by choosing Dr. HALLOCK Chairman, and Mr. WILLIS Secretary. Mrs. FULLER, Vice-President of the Chicago Society of Spiritualists, and agent of the same for soliciting these contributions, and of the Chicago Soldiers' Home, then gave an account of the manner in which the Chicago Spiritualists came to have their department in the fair. Mrs. FULLER observed that she was not a paid agent, but actuated by love for her country and for the soldiers, and "a humble instrument in the hands of the angels" to do this work. Mrs. FULLER then read some papers, constituting an "appeal" to Spiritualists and Progressionists to contribute to the Chicago Fair, and thus do credit to the belief they entertain. Mrs. FULLER concluded by asking that a contribution be taken up.

Mr. C. PARTRIDGE followed with an earnest and patriotic appeal in favor of the soldiers and of the Chicago fair. He announced that two of the expresses have agreed to transport free all parcels for the fair not weighing more than sixty pounds each. He moved that a canvassing committee be appointed to collect contributions in New-York and the neighboring town.

Dr. J. S. GREAVES now read to the audience all the dispatches from the point which had come through to-day, of which the chief points were received with enthusiastic applause, and he argued hence how immediate was the need of funds.

Mr. G. BUSH, of California, made an enthusiastic speech for liberal giving, and the contribution asked for by Mrs. FULLER was taken up. It was announced that Miss ADA HOYT would give a public séance for the benefit of the fair, at such time and place as should be determined. A canvassing committee of ladies and gentlemen was now chosen, with power to add to their numbers. Mr. PARTRIDGE invited them to meet at his house this evening at 7½, P. M., to organize. The amount given and subscribed just before was announced to be $381 38, besides a painting and a box, and the meeting was then resolved into the ordinary Sunday afternoon conference of the place.

The members of the committee, to any of whom gifts in money or goods may be sent for the fair, are as follows:

C. Partridge, 26 West Fifteenth-street; Judge Edmonds, 111 Broadway; Mr. E. Merwin, 56 St. Mark's-place; Emma Hardinge, 8 Fourth-avenue; Mrs. Doctor Hallock, 79 East Fifteenth-street; Mr. B. B. Grinnell, Jersey City; Martin Lewis, Bergen; Mrs. Wilber, Fifty-first-street, near Third-avenue; Mr. W. Ludden, Brooklyn; Mrs. M. A. Davis; Mr. Keefe, 9 Twelfth-street; Mr. Lyman, Fifth-Avenue Hotel; Mrs. Tucker; Mrs. Love; Mr. Willis; Mr. Bush, 69 Broadway; Rev. F. L. H. Willis; Wm. Fishbygh, Williamsburgh.

Fires.

INCENDIARISM IN HARLEM.

MICHAL KELLY'S barn, in One Hundred and Eighth-street, near Third-avenue, was destroyed by fire of incendiary origin at about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at $250. Mr. KELLY was not insured.

DESTRUCTION OF THE FLORENCE SALOON.

The old Florence Saloon, on the southwest corner of Broadway and Houston-street, owned and occupied by Mr. SAMUEL FELTER, was destroyed by fire at about 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The loss is nearly covered by $10,000 insurance in the Tradesmen's office. Mr. —— TUTTLE'S rubber-store, on the first floor above the saloon, was also consumed, and considerable damage was done by water and smoke in Mr. H. E. BAILEY'S piano-rooms, on the second floor, and Mr. CHARLES K. BELL'S photograph gallery, on the third floor. Mr. M. ROSHTON'S stock of children's clothing, at No. 605 Broadway, and Mr. C. W. FRENCH'S stock of gentlemen's furnishing goods, at No. 607, were damaged by smoke and water to the extent of about $2,000. Mr. FRANCIS has ample insurance in the Mercantile, Metropolitan and Commonwealth offices. On Saturday by Mr. FELTER received a consignment of wines, and on opening the baskets in his cellar the straw was thrown into an area, and it is supposed that the fire was kindled from a lighted cigar-stump which some one carelessly tossed into the straw.

IN FULTON-STREET.

Mr. PETER B. TOWNSEND'S cracker bakery, at No. 219 Fulton-street, was damaged to the amount of about $50 by water, a fire having been discovered in the furnace room at about 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

IN FIRST-AVENUE.

A fire occurred in Mr. GOLDSTON'S fancy-store, at No. 335 First-avenue, at about 7½ o'clock last evening, but the flames were extinguished with damage not exceeding $50. The fire was from matches with which a boy was playing. Mr. GOLDSTON is fully insured.

GREENWICH AND WARREN STREETS.

The firemen of the Eighth District were called out at about 7 o'clock last evening by the burning of a bed in the attic of ROSENBERG'S grocery, at No. 299 Greenwich-street. Damage about $25.

FALSE ALARM.

The bells were rung at about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the firemen were summoned to No. 33 Park-street, where a chimney was burning.

EXEMPLARY BEHAVIOR OF THE FIREMEN.

It was everywhere remarked, yesterday, that the firemen never were more prompt or better behaved than at the numerous fires which demanded their attention yesterday. At different hours during the day the entire department appeared in the streets, and yet there was not a single arrest, nor was there occasion for more than two arrests anywhere in the city.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

SOLDIERS ROBBED.—PETER FORT and WILLIAM SHELDON, late privates in the First New-York Cavalry, were cheated by two confidence operators in the neighborhood of Thirty-first-street Railroad Station. The operators introduced themselves as travelers bound to Albany, and produced a $500 bank-note, which they wished to break. SHELDON and FORT had only $270 between them, and this they loaned one of the operators, taking the $500 as collateral. Of course the swindler fled, and the bank-note was spurious. Ascertaining which fact, the soldiers made their case known to Capt. WALLING, of the Twenteth Precinct, and subsequently Officers CLOW and IRVINE apprehended JAMES WATSON, GEO. ENGLISH and HARRY GRIFFIN, and the latter was identified by both FORT and SHELDON, as one of the confidence operators who had defrauded them. The prisoners were committed by Justice LEDWITH.

DROWNED IN THE BAY.—DENNIS EVERS, a seaman on board the ship Alexander Marshall, was knocked overboard by a hawser, while that vessel was being towed to sea, on Saturday afternoon. MONDAY, April 2—A. M.

Trade partially improved during the past week, the Importers' and Domestic Commission houses are readjusting their prices, as far as practicable, to the altered condition of Exchange and Gold, and the larger and cheaper supply of the raw material for our Domestic mills. There was less doing in the Export line of Domestic Produce, but this will change as the season advances and the Canals are reopened to navigation. Although prices on the Produce Exchange have come down very considerably with the recent fall in Gold, they have not yet adjusted themselves to an export demand necessarily regulated by a greatly reduced Currency value for Exchange on England. For three or four days of the past week, Gold scarcely varied from 150@152 per cent. Late on Saturday there was some speculation as high as 154 on the hasty assumption that GRANT'S great fight would result in a drawn battle, if not a repulse. There was renewed panic in the Railway Stocks early in the week, but the feeling changed and the market acted independent of the Gold Room after Wednesday and was firm at the close. Money has become easy in supply and 1 per cent. cheaper to the Broker's and the distrust of mercantile credit has greatly diminished.

The Import Entries of the past week, including the Dry Goods table in our last paper, amount to $3,611,875, against $6,138,719 same time last year. The Export Clearances of Domestic Produce amount to $2,301,742, against $3,177,026 same week last year. The Export of Specie amounts to $79,308, against $189,000 same week last year. The Customs for the week are $1,093,099. The receipts of Cotton, coastwise and by rail, are 4,257 bales.

The following are the official and semi-official Custom-house returns of the Import Entries of Foreign Merchandise at New-York since the 1st of July, 1864, the beginning of the current Fiscal or Treasury year—the small entries of Foreign Specie not included:

The proportion of Customs at New-York to the whole country, since the reopening of New-Orleans and other Southern ports, is about 72 per cent. The total, therefore, received in the first nine months of the Fiscal Year is over $54,000,000, equal to $72,000,000 for the year, as estimated by Mr. FESSENDEN last December. The Gold Interest chargeable upon this Revenue for the year is, as heretofore stated:

First six months, to Dec. 31, 1864.....	$27,152,905
Second six months, to June 30, 1865.....	30,701,605
Total.....	$57,854,510

As the Gold-bearing Funded Debt of the United States has now reached its maximum for the present, or until the Popular 7-30 Cents. become convertible, the subsequent half-yearly Gold Interest charge for the two Fiscal Years 1866 and 1867, will be as follows:

Total Principal of Gold-bearing Debt of the United States, 5 and 6 per cents.....$1,087,550,438

Only one session of the Stock Exchange was held Saturday. The market was steady on the Government Stocks, and again very firm and upward at the close on the New-York and Western Railways and on some of the Miscellaneous Shares. The Gold Room was quiet, notwithstanding the exciting War bulletins from Gen. GRANT'S Army. The range of sales was 151½@152 per cent., the same as on Friday. Money was easy to the Brokers at 6@7 per cent., the leading firms paying but 6 per cent. The subscriptions to the 7-30 per cent. Popular Loan at the First National Bank amount to $400,000, at Ninth National, $381,550.

H. J. MESSENGER,
BANKER,
No. 139 Broadway.
7-30 LOAN AGENCY.

Four Per Cent. Interest allowed on Deposits, subject to check at sight.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned has assumed the General Subscription Agency for the sale of United States Treasury Notes bearing seven and three-tenths per cent. interest, per annum, known as the

SEVEN-THIRTY LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of June 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that time, in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder, into

U. S. 5-20 SIX PER CENT GOLD-BEARING BONDS.

These bonds are worth a premium, which increases the actual profit on the 7-30 Loan, and its exemption from State and municipal taxation adds from one to three per cent. more, according to the rate levied on other property. The interest is payable in currency semi annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest amounts to
One cent per day on a $50 note.
Two cents per day on a $100 note.
Ten cents per day on a $500 note.
Twenty cents per day on a $1,000 note.
$1 per day on a $5,000 note.

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions, and the notes onwarded at once. The interest to 15th June next will be paid in advance. This is now offered by the Government, and it is confident'y expected that its superior advantages will make it the

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET

GREAT POPULAR LOAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Less than $300,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within four months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National banks, State banks, and private bankers, throughout the country, have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.
